

The Leader in Data Logistics

Founded in 1992, HULFT is one of the most trusted enterprise data integration companies in the world. It is a subsidiary of Saison Information Systems (TSE:9640), the company that helped Japanese and other Asian banks computerize their operations and conduct eBusiness. Today, we're the fuel you need for data logistics, digital transformation, and IoT initiatives.

What is data logistics?

At HULFT, we define data logistics as the movement, automation, transformation, and integration of data.

THE HULFT DIFFERENCE: Immediate results and a platform for the future.

Your business cannot wait two or more years for results. Business operations teams need applications today that integrate data sources and digitize documents that shorten process workflows and improve customer satisfaction. Just as important, your company must re-architect legacy platforms to prepare for IoT, and artificial intelligence. This is a completely different process on a different timeline, but just as essential to your mission. Only HULFT can give the best of both worlds.
